

Self-Advocacy Program Without Limits

For High School and Post Secondary Students in Transition

By: Dr. Richard Pimentel

Eric Stone, Steve Baer and Heidi Dirkse-Graw

Without Limits is an interactive curriculum designed for trainers and teachers to provide a safe environment for high school and post-secondary students in transition to discover their own value as individuals. Students gain an understanding of effective ways to be fully productive and succeed at school and work. They learn more about themselves and strategies for self-advocacy. The curriculum is designed for four different intellectual levels of students including:

1. High school and/or post-secondary academic skills
2. Middle school level and high elementary academic skills
3. Low elementary level academic skills
4. Pre-K Kindergarten level academic skills
